At the same time, his innocence makes his performance more adorable. Due credit goes to his parents. Their continuous encouragement and conscious search for guidance have contributed immensely to his progress. His curiosity to learn new skills is exceptionally meritorious. “I was introduced to Soham's magic and ventriloquism puppetry skills through his Facebook videos. Soham immediately captured my attention with his charming on-camera presence and his incorporation of magic, ventriloquism, and puppeteering skills. Not only does Soham strive to keep the viewer entertained, he also sings with his puppets on occasion-which is always enjoyable. I love the performance art of ventriloquism and can tell Soham will go far just by seeing the dedication and effort he puts into each piece of online content. My best wishes to Soham, and I look forward to "liking", "laughing", and "hearting" many videos of his to come in the near future”
